What is this research study about?

We wish to identify 10 research priorities for cardiac rehabilitation in women's cardiovascular health. We are using methods developed by the James Lind Alliance (JLA), including surveys and a workshop, to determine the priorities. The JLA approach involves people with lived experience and clinicians in identifying shared research priorities.

Who can participate?

- Women with lived experience of cardiovascular condition(s) and/or procedure(s).
- Family, friends, and caregivers of women with lived experience of cardiovascular condition(s) and/or procedure(s).
- Clinicians involved in the care of women who have experienced cardiovascular condition(s) and/or procedure(s).

Have Questions?

Please contact the study coordinator Racquel Brown at Racquel.Brown@uhn.ca or contact Dr. Jennifer Bethell at 647-649-7321

What's involved?

You fill out a questionnaire in which we ask you to help us choose the most important questions that were submitted in survey 1.
